Dear Friends,

Last year marked an important milestone for Morrissey-Compton Educational Center: our 35th anniversary. That’s three and a half decades of helping individuals with learning differences do better in school, and in life. Thank you for your part in these efforts.

When I joined the agency in 1991, I could not have imagined the profound impact that our services would have in so many areas, and how what we gave could ultimately come back to us—and show that we have truly made the world a better place not just for subsequent generations, but for ourselves.

This was brought fully home to me during a recent medical appointment. A young physician recognized me and said “Dr. Brentar, I don’t know if you remember me, but you tested me 15 years ago!” We had a really nice discussion about what had transpired in his life since he first walked through our doors as an undergraduate student. And he thanked me for helping him get the accommodations that he needed to do well in college and medical school. It was a rewarding moment in my career!

We live in a country—and indeed, in a world—that is divided. The best that any of us can do is to try to make our own difference in whatever way that we can. Our clinicians have interacted with countless students over the years, and although I know of many success stories of former clients, including several that are included in this report, I realize now that it is likely only a fraction of what we have actually accomplished. At Morrissey-Compton, we have helped to create the next generation of healers, and educators, and advocates for justice. And so many of them received financial aid for services that we could provide only because you cared enough to give.

For young people who struggle with learning challenges, and in particular, those who live in difficult economic circumstances, there is often a moment in time where their lives can go many different ways. When these individuals are fortunate enough to get the help that they need to discover that they can succeed before they have fully embarked on a less desirable path, they are in a unique position to use their background as an advantage—one that gives them the compassion, understanding, and strength that can make them great leaders.

Together, perhaps we can help mend the divide—one student at a time. In the meantime, please enjoy this brief recap of what we accomplished in just one short year, who we helped, and the individuals, including you, who made it all possible.

With Warmest Regards and Endless Gratitude,

John T. Brentar, Ph.D.
Leveraging Generosity = Crowdfunding Success

Thank you to the Grace-Rosenberg Family Foundation for generously providing $25,000 to help motivate people to give through a specially created crowdfunding event, Fund Dreams, Support Morrissey-Compton. During the month of May, $94,435 was given to help empower students who learn differently succeed academically, and in life. We are grateful for the Grace-Rosenberg Family's impactful matching gift and for the support of community members who participated in the campaign.

Celebrating 35 Years

On July 15, more than 130 past and former clients, staff members, Challenge students and parents, and other agency friends gathered at Holbrook-Palmer Park in Atherton to celebrate Morrissey-Compton Educational Center’s 35th birthday. The event featured Challenge Summer School and included a barbeque lunch, games, giveaways, snow cones, prizes, and fun activities for all ages based on Challenge School themes past and present.

Conquering Limits Together

Each autumn, Morrissey-Compton Educational Center holds a special event with a twofold purpose: to celebrate our community’s educators, particularly those who help students who learn differently, and to raise money towards our Scholarship Fund. This year’s event, “Conquering Limits: Learn, Achieve, Succeed!” honored Outstanding Educators Karen Grites, M.S. (right), Founder of LearningWisely; and Gayle Rosenberg, M.A., BCET (left), Director of Junipero Serra High School’s Academic Resource Center and an educational therapist at Sacred Heart Prep. The event raised almost $61,000 to provide full and partial scholarships to families in need during the following year.

Innovative West Coast Conference Returns

November of 2017 saw the return of Morrissey-Compton Educational Center’s Executive Function (EF) & Learning Conference after a two-year hiatus. The conference’s purpose is to bring together multi-disciplinary professionals who assess, treat, teach, and research EF differences and typical EF development. This year we were able to partner with the Stanford Graduate School of Education, California Psychological Association, and the Courses 4 Teachers (affiliated with the University of the Pacific) to present the conference at Stanford and to offer continuing educational credits for professionals.

Over 240 teachers, educational therapists, psychologists, medical professionals, researchers, graduate students, and volunteers were in attendance at the conference, which was organized by Dr. Surina Basho. Some of the nation’s top experts in the EF field presented.

2017 Highlights

3½ Decades of Magic!

For the close to 60 students grades K-6 who attended Morrissey-Compton Educational Center’s 35th annual Challenge Summer School, the memories of fun and friendship, as well as a newly discovered sense of self-esteem and academic confidence, will last a lifetime. The program combines goals that have existed from its inception, such as fostering self-confidence by providing ample opportunities to succeed and helping to maintain academic skills over the summer, with a modern curriculum that cultivates executive function and social skills and includes alternative, research-based strategies taught by trained special educators to support reading, writing, and mathematics achievement.

Theme: Inventions
“Having Morrissey-Compton do a psychoeducational evaluation of my teenage son was one of the most empowering actions I have ever taken for my child. The detailed evaluation and very positive feedback session provided my son and me with a clear understanding of his learning profile, and the language and tools to help him advocate for what he needs as he heads into high school. It has also given me a better understanding of the type of environment in which he is most likely to thrive! My son feels empowered and his confidence has grown, and he is delighted to know more about his learning style and what accommodations he needs to properly demonstrate his mastery of subjects. Thank you for providing this invaluable insight! Your process from start to finish was exceptional!”

—W.J.

“Challenge Summer School has helped me with being able to be a self-starter. I’ve been receiving executive function tutoring for about two years, and it is helping me be more organized, thus helping me to get better grades in school. Thank you Morrissey-Compton!”

—K.H.

“Always professional and caring. There may be other professionals that offer educational services, but I can say after many meetings with school admin and trying to navigate an IEP: The services at Morrissey-Compton are top notch and well-respected statewide. We appreciate all you did to help demystify the educational services sector with grace, patience and a smile.”

—C.N.

“I just want to let you know that four years has passed by quickly and now I am a Cal graduate. I received my BS in Electrical Engineering and Computer Science with highest honors Saturday. I want to thank you for being my advocate and believing in me. I would not be where I am today if it had not been for your diligent work on my behalf. I was able to receive the accommodations I needed at Cal without any question or problem…..so different than what we had to go through in high school. I will always be very grateful for your assistance.”

—Eddie

“I am incredibly grateful for the support of Morrissey-Compton in their efforts to support my child, particularly the financial support in making the Social Skills Group accessible, as it has been enormously helpful.”

“In Your Own Words

“Morrissey/Compton is an AMAZING rare gem in the educational testing world. They are a very professional office with a kind and caring staff. We found them to be a wealth of information for our child. Both the testing and consultation helped us to better understand our child’s learning patterns and needs.”

—H.M.

“Thank you for presenting Carrie’s challenges and strengths in such a concise and powerful way to the team at school. I’m glad we came up with a concrete plan of action and am confident that with the additional support discussed, she will do great in high school. I have no doubt that without your active participation, this meeting would have gone completely differently—thank you!”

“I wanted to reach out and thank you again for helping me with my professional testing. I searched far and wide and no one would help me, or give me good advice. When you offered to help my whole outlook changed and I felt a bit more courageous to keep going. Thank you for helping me reach my dream!!”

Your generous support helped us to do the following in 2017:

- Allow 22 children the opportunity to discover their strengths, build self-esteem, and make lifelong friends by attending Challenge Summer School.
- Enable 40 individuals to discover the nature of their learning differences—and gain access to the tools that can help overcome them—by receiving full and partial scholarships for Educational, Intellectual, Psychological, and Psychoeducational evaluations.
- Provide 15 young people with 263 hours of therapy to help them resolve self-esteem issues, social/emotional problems, and ineffective behaviors.
- Help 36 students do better academically, and enjoy the same opportunities as their peers, by receiving financial aid for 603 hours of tutoring.
- Give 300 parents of children with learning differences valuable strategies to help their children succeed by attending free Parent Education classes.

Investing in Happy Futures

At Morrissey-Compton Educational Center, improvements in test scores or grades is only part of the picture. Academic success is certainly important, as it can lead to college admission and increased career choices. We delight when we hear from former clients who credit the services that they received from Morrissey-Compton as playing a key role in their academic success. Many have gone on to enjoy fulfilling careers in wide variety of fields including psychiatry, education, medicine, law, high tech, and finance. Truly, these individuals have been able to thrive despite the fact that learning did not come as easily to them as it might to others.

Beyond academic and financial success, however, when you give to Morrissey-Compton, you are investing in happiness—today and tomorrow. When a child is given the opportunity to shine in many different areas, as all students are at Challenge Summer School, she feels self-confident, often for the first time. When a student learns how to leverage his strengths to compensate for areas of weakness, he will no longer think of himself as somehow “not as smart” as his peers. And when an adolescent with behavior issues attends a social skills group, she learns how to relate to others and make friends. These tools and experiences are invaluable and improve a student’s overall happiness. Best of all, they last a lifetime.

From the bottom of our hearts, and on behalf of the individuals and families who received life-changing services in 2017, regardless of ability to pay, we thank you for kind and caring generosity.
